A sense of belonging

Leigh Academy Hugh Christie is part of Leigh Academies Trust. The academy is structured to embrace the 'small school' model of learning. This ensures that all students are understood as individuals whilst embracing the facilities and opportunities available within a larger academy context.

All pupils will belong to three colleges as well as the whole academy. The colleges are called Angelou, Attenborough and Coe.

Each College is led by a Head of College (Vice Principal), supported by an Assistant Head of College (Assistant Principal), Head of Pastoral, dedicated student support managers and a college administrator. Pupils will also have an Advisor who they meet every morning. This is a comprehensive Pastoral team who will oversee the safety, attendance and academic progress of all pupils in their respective college by providing outstanding Pastoral care.

The Colleges take part in competitions throughout the year. Pupils are rewarded with 'Merit Points' for upholding the academy values.
